

Programme Management and Collaboration Software

Delcam
ps-team

“In an increasingly accessible world of information, harnessing knowledge through on-line collaboration is key to business agility and success. PS-Team delivers the right technology to support a business, its people and their processes.”

PS-Team for Programme Management is designed to help delivery teams work together more effectively. On-line collaboration and the use of efficient programme management processes helps to ensure that all stakeholders work towards a common strategy, are kept up-to-date at all times and enables everyone to make more informed decisions.

PS-Team for Document Management combines the advantage of web-based access to documents with version control. Keeping associated documents with their project plans and activities, means that everyone can find documents quickly and easily whilst ensuring they have access to the latest versions.

PS-Team for Collaboration is a simple, yet effective, solution for everyday task management and team collaboration. PS-Team provides workgroups with a web-based shared working environment where everything is audited, tracked and never forgotten. Using a centralised “to-do-list” the organisation’s processes can be more effectively managed, information captured and knowledge shared. As a result processes are optimised, time to market reduced and profits enhanced.

“Real time management reports via PS-Team have significantly improved our ability to make the right decisions. Previously a team of people would spend several days manually compiling reports which were out of date by the time the management team got to see them. PS-Team has increased the team’s productivity whilst giving management instant visibility of work in progress.”

Background of PS-Team

PS-Team was developed initially for use within Delcam and across its 125 sales partners before being marketed commercially in 2001. Now with over 1,000 users dispersed across Delcam's extended enterprise, PS-Team is being used to communicate across the supply chain covering all aspects of business. From pre-sales support through to finance and customer service, PS-Team provides visibility, traceability and accountability of all actions and decisions. Previously, information was fragmented, not always accessible and difficult to track down making teamwork time consuming and unproductive.

“Previously individuals managed their own project-related email and this meant that the team had limited access to key work and less overall visibility. PS-Team provided a centralised solution for capturing project-related email so that the content is extracted, stored against the project and visible to everybody concerned.”

Innovation and Technical Excellence

One of the key challenges for many businesses involved in project-based work and ad-hoc team communication is the effective and efficient use of supporting technology.

Information and knowledge needs to be disseminated whilst also ensuring that people are not overwhelmed with 'noise and chatter' and over complicated systems.

Technology tools must therefore be agile, easy to implement and simple to use otherwise data will become lost in a sea of information and technical issues.

Knowledge - Productivity - Results

PS-Team is a single web-based solution which allows users to access their data through a web browser and email making it an easy-to-implement and familiar-to-use solution. Business processes can be customised through the use of Javascript and Web Services to suit a specific workflow that creates consistent and accurate data which transforms information storage. This all means a rich and accessible knowledge base that empowers teams, drives productivity and helps create results.
